

Biography – Dr. David Rodgers

Dr. David Rodgers is the Idaho State University Associate Director for the Center for Advanced Energy Studies.

An ISU faculty member since 1985, Rodgers also serves as ISU's Associate Vice-President for Research.

He recently returned from sabbatical in Tajikistan, where he spent the 2018-2019 academic year as a Fulbright Scholar at the University of Central Asia.

From 2010-2018, Rodgers was Associate Dean in the ISU College of Science & Engineering, and from 2013 to 2018, Rodgers also served as ISU Site Leader for MILES (Managing Idaho's Landscapes for Ecosystem Services), a research program that involved 100-plus participants at Idaho's three research universities. In that position, he managed more than $4 million in funding from the National Science Foundation.

Rodgers earned his PhD in Geology from Stanford University and his bachelor's from Carleton College, also in Geology.
